Jean Cole wasn't just paying respects to Canadian war veterans on Thursday.

The Gatineau resident was remembering her father, Second World War veteran Sgt. Robert Douglas Cole.

"He went to England and worked in the hospital during the Blitz," she said. Although the family watched the National Remembrance Day ceremony here every year, he didn't talk about the war, she said.

"It did affect him a lot though. He said 'they bombed the city really bad.' He saw

About 30,000 people gathered at the National War Memorial for the Remembrance Day ceremony.

"It was probably the most moving one of these ceremonies that I had ever been to," said uOttawa student Nate Shaw, 20.

"It's wonderful that we're honouring them, but it's sad at the same time because there are fewer vets every year," said Lindsay Martin, 21. Andrew Cohen of the Historica-Dominion Institute said veterans of the Second World War are dying at the rate of about 400 to 500 a week.

Ottawa honours the living and the dead

An estimated 30,000 people honoured Canada's war dead and the country's living war veterans Thursday. There are estimated to be thousands of living Second World War veterans in Canada. Veterans from the Second World War, as well as those from the Korean War and the war in Afghanistan, attended the ceremony, which was one of several held across Ottawa.

► Remembrance Day is important, but youth should be more aware of nation's history, student says

JOE

EMMA CONRAD,
CARLETON STUDENT

Remembrance Day can be a difficult time for some to remember the effort and sacrifices our men and women have made during times of war.

It can be even more difficult for a generation that is so young to appreciate those sacrifices.

In between walking to and from classes, however, dozens of youth from Carleton University decided to take a moment and pay tribute to Canada's veterans at a ceremony outside the Azrieli Pavilion Thursday.

"I think it's easy to forget just how much our troops have done for us from living in such a safe and sheltered community," said first-year journalism student Emma Conrad.

Conrad was one of the students who gathered along Library Road as she watched the Canadian flag lowered to the sound of bagpipes. She thinks that forgetting is easy for youth today because of the generation gap between them and Canada's veterans.

Political science student Graham Macdonald felt the same way. "It's impossible to get an actual feeling of what it would have been like," he said.

He believes education in Canada's history is key for the youth to remember and understand our veterans' sacrifices.

Remembrance Day organizers at Carleton University encouraged students to attend the ceremony in an effort to increase awareness of Canada's veterans, and Conrad thought it was a big help.

"I think this is a good start, having this out in the open when students are walking by they see it," she said.

"They're more likely to stop because it's not that the youth don't want to remember, it's just that they don't think about it."

'We had a nice life together,' recalls wife of WWII veteran

While the thoughts of many who attended Remembrance Day ceremonies at Beechwood National Cemetery were with those who gave their lives in war, Jennie Jones also came to remember one of the veterans who returned home after the Second World War — her husband, Sapper Coyne Jones.

After Thursday's observances, she found Coyne's grave among those of the many veterans interred at Beechwood, where she carefully arranged fresh flowers.

"I come back every Remembrance Day," she said. "I never miss."

Sapper Jones served four years in France, Italy and Germany in the war before he returned home and started a family. He died in 1985, aged 65.

"He worked in the civil service and we bought a home in the east end," Jones said, dabbing her eyes with a tissue.

"We were married in 1949 and we had a nice life together."

"Florence wanted, I think, the same book I wanted, which is to say credible, big, full of life, like him."

When he embarked on his biography of Canadian novelist Mordecai Richler, Charles Foran had no doubt his fascination with the larger-than-life figure would get him through the four years it took to research and write.

Why attend?

The purpose of this meeting is to:
• Present the route evaluation criteria and analysis;

Militants strike Pakistani police

Militants attacked a police compound in the heart of Pakistan's largest city on Thursday with a hail of gunfire and a massive car bomb, levelling the building and killing at least 15 people, authorities and witnesses said.

The gang of around six gunmen managed to penetrate a high-security area of Karachi that is home to the U.S. Consulate, two luxury hotels and the offices of regional leaders. While no stranger to extremist violence, Karachi has not witnessed this kind of organized assault in recent years.

It was the first major attack against a government target outside the northwestern tribal regions for several months, showing the reach of Islamist militants seeking to overthrow the U.S.-allied government despite efforts to crack

The gunmen first opened fire on the offices of the Crime Investigation Department before detonating a huge car bomb, the Sindh Home Minister said. The building has a detention facility that was believed to be holding criminals, and possibly militants.

While militant groups often claim responsibility for the attacks, some Muslim political parties and leaders, angry at the U.S. role in Afghanistan, allege American involvement, hampering the fight.

Afghan mission extended, PM says

► Prime Minister Stephen Harper lays a wreath with a veteran during a Remembrance Day ceremony at the War Memorial Closter Valley, near Seoul, South Korea, on Thursday before the start of the G20 Summit.

► Feds considering keeping troops in Kabul until 2014, sources say

Stephen Harper says he decided with some "reluctance" to extend Canada's military mission in Afghanistan.

The prime minister confirmed Thursday that Canadian troops will stay in Afghanistan to train the country's military after the current combat mission ends in July.

"Look, I'm not going to kid you. Down deep my preference would be, would have been to see a complete end to the military mission," he said.

Previously, Harper had insisted that Canadian troop would withdraw by July. However, NATO countries have been working for months to persuade him to change his mind, and the opposition Liberals suggested they would support an extended training mission.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

No combat

► Harper, speaking on the sidelines of the G20 Summit, acknowledged he has been under pressure by NATO allies to continue in a combat role, but he said a training role was the most he could agree to.

► He said he told his NATO allies in no uncertain terms that Canada's combat role is coming to an end, but added that he sees merit in the argument that Afghan troops aren't ready to stand on their own and Canada could help in their training.

► "I don't want to risk the gains that Canadian soldiers have fought for and have sacrificed in such significant numbers by pulling out too early, if we can avoid that," he said.

U.S.'s 2011 pullout may last until 2014

Message to the Taliban: Forget July 2011, the date that President Barack Obama set to begin withdrawing U.S. forces from Afghanistan. The more important date is 2014 when the international coalition hopes Afghan soldiers and policemen will be ready to take the lead in securing the nation.

That date will be the focus of discussions this month at a NATO summit in Lisbon, Portugal.

The 2014 target date isn't new, Afghan President Hamid Karzai said in his November 2009 inauguration speech that he wanted Afghans to take responsibility for security across the country in four years. But that was all but forgotten the next month when Obama announced he hoped to start a gradual pullout in July 2011. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Twitter twits feel full force of the law

- One allegedly called for a journalist to be stoned
- One fined for threatening to blow airport 'sky high'

Two cases in Britain are testing the limits of freedom of speech on the Internet.

A city councillor in England has been arrested after allegedly posting a message on Twitter calling for a journalist to be stoned to death.

Meanwhile, a court has upheld the conviction of a man who tweeted about blowing up his local airport.

Police said Birmingham city Coun. Gareth Compton was arrested on suspicion of sending an offensive or indecent message. He has not been charged and was released on bail.

Mad message

- Media reports say Birmingham city Coun. Gareth Compton posted on Twitter: "Can someone please stone Yasmin Alibhai-Brown to death? It would be a blessing, really."
- Alibhai-Brown is a liberal columnist for The Independent newspaper.

On Thursday, Compton tweeted an apology for his "ill-conceived attempt at humour."

Also Thursday, a court rejected an appeal by Paul Chambers, who was convicted of sending a threatening message after saying on Twitter that he would blow up an airport if his flight was delayed.

Chambers, 26, was arrested after he posted a message saying he'd blow the airport "sky high" if his flight was delayed.

A judge found him guilty of sending an offensive, indecent, obscene or menacing message.

On Thursday, Judge Jacqueline Davies at Doncaster Crown Court upheld the conviction. He was ordered to pay $3,225 in prosecution costs, in addition to a $620 fine, saying Chambers' message was "obviously menacing."

- Harper was to target countries that have engaged in protectionism, officials said.

Is the sewer service line beyond the outside wall of your home or building blocked? If so, it is extremely important that you make sure no natural gas line intersects the sewer line before attempting to clear it. Using rotating or water jetting equipment to clear a blocked sewer line can damage a natural gas line and cause a serious gas leak. # Authorities catch anti-Islam blogger

- Authorities in Arab world using social media to gather intelligence
- Residents had no idea Muslim scholar's son was leading a double life

A mysterious blogger who set off an uproar in the Arab world by claiming he was God and hurling insults at the Prophet Muhammad is now behind bars — caught in a sting that used Facebook to track him down.

The case of the unlikely apostate, a shy barber from a backwater West Bank town, is highlighting the limits of tolerance in the Western-backed Palestinian Authority — and illustrating a new trend by authorities in the Arab world to mine social media for evidence.

Residents of Qalqiliya say they had no idea that Walid Husayin — the 26-year-old son of a Muslim scholar — was leading a double life.

Known as a quiet man who prayed with his family each Friday and spent his evenings working in his father's barbershop, Husayin was secretly posting anti-religion rants on the Internet during his free time.

Now, he faces a potential life prison sentence on heresy charges for "insulting the divine essence." Many in this conservative Muslim town say he should be killed for renouncing Islam.

"He should be burned to death," said Abdul-Latif Dahoud, a 35-year-old Qalqiliya resident.

Profiles

Hamas, which rules Gaza, and the Palestinian Authority both create fake Facebook profiles to befriend and monitor known dissidents, activists said. In September, a young Gaza man was detained after publishing an article critical of Hamas on his Facebook feed. Such "stalking" on Facebook has become common in the Arab world.

Rationed food, stinky toilets on fire-hit ship

► 200 Canadians finally come ashore after disastrous cruise to Mexico ► 'This hasn't been fun': Passenger

Kathleen Ehlert has spent the last four days scouring the Internet, flipping between news channels and waiting by the phone, hoping for any word on her family stranded aboard a disabled cruise ship.

On Thursday, she finally heard from them. It was a short, crackly call from her mother.

"She was yelling and saying, 'We're fine, we're here,'" said Ehlert, 29, who lives in Calgary.

"She was on the verge of tears, saying, 'This hasn't been fun.'"

Ehlert's family members were among 4,500 people, including nearly 200 Canadians, who were on board the Carnival ► Honeymooner Sabrina Klinge leaves the ship.

Thursday in San Diego harbour, pulled to shore by six tugboats.

The lack of power meant passengers weren't able to charge cellphones or laptops, making it much harder for them to connect with loved ones.

The Splendor left Long Beach, Calif., on Sunday for a seven-day trip to the Mexican Riviera.

The ship was about 322 kilometres south of San Diego and about 71 kilometres off shore when the fire killed its power.

Limited food supplies meant long lines for cold meals, which sometimes resulted in arguments between passengers.

CASH COW CALLED LCBO

Every Christmas season, my girlfriend and I hit the snowy road. Destination: The Hawkesbury LCBO, where I always leave the store with two cases of red wine.

Hundreds of Quebecers make similar pilgrimages every year. Why? Most bottles are cheaper there than in Quebec. (Like the SAQ, the LCBO is a state monopoly. Just less rapacious.)

But I shouldn't have to go to Hawkesbury. Consumers in Quebec, and elsewhere in Canada, could find cheaper wines at home... if we could just break the liquor boards' monopolies across the country.

In Quebec, defenders of the status quo keep repeating that the SAQ is a "cash cow" for the state. But this generous yearly dividend comes from our wallets.

We, captive consumers, pay a premium for our bottles of Merlot and Cabernet Sauvignon. The only reason the SAQ makes an abnormally high profit is because it's a monopoly. Without competitors, it can bleed consumers.

The SAQ takes a margin of 40 per cent to 135 per cent on each bottle it sells. It pays $5 to a producer, takes a $7 cut and sells the bottle for $15 (including taxes). Yes, the SAQ is a cash cow for politicians. But it's us, the consumers, who are being milked!

Should we privatize the SAQ? Not necessarily. A private monopoly would be no better than a public one. What we need is more competition. We need to allow entrepreneurs to open wine shops and compete with the SAQ.

We also need to allow people to buy bottles from around the world over the Internet, without having to go through the SAQ. For example: You like the Jacob's Creek Shiraz 2007? A store in New Jersey is selling it for $6.53. On the SAQ's shelves, the same bottle will set you back $14.90. This wine can be bought on the Internet and delivered to your door in less than two weeks.

The problem is not the SAQ itself, or the LCBO. The problem is the prohibition of competition.

In Belgium, a non-producing country whose population and culture are similar to Quebec's, the wine market is completely free.

Hundreds of retailers compete with each other. As a result, they have three times the wines, for a third of the price.

Quebecers and other Canadians like wine. Many are connoisseurs, and eager to try new varieties and vineyards.

They deserve better than a state monopoly that is clearly corked.

Tims beats a retreat from New England

Tim Hortons says the money-losing New England stores it has slated for closure have cost the chain $4.4 million so far this year and that a retreat from the fledgling market will improve its U.S. profits.

The Oakville-based company announced late Wednesday that it plans to close the doors at 36 coffee in New England in 2008 and has tried to boost sales in the remaining locations. However, performance has fallen short of the expectations Tims had when it acquired a small chain of coffee shops as a platform for growth, said Tim Hortons president and CEO Don Schroeder.

The iconic Canadian restaurant operator has been making inroads into the American market, but says the closures are necessary because the stores are situated in some of the most intensely competitive markets for quick-service restaurants.

The closures, which represent a small fraction of the 600-plus stores Tims has in the United States, were largely responsible for the company's third-quarter profit missing analysts' expectations.

5 MINUTES WITH: HEATHER MOYSE

Heather Moyse, the Olympic bobsleigh gold medalist from P.E.I., was in Ottawa this week to meet 12 exceptional kids through the Children's Miracle Network.

How's this day with the Children's Miracle Network Champions been?

It's pretty great. It's hard to even put into words. I don't know, it's just the atmosphere. Everyone's so happy to be here and so excited. Each Champion that's here through this program is both a champion in their own right but inspiring every single person that they're coming in contact with.

Did you really bond with any of the kids in particular?

Well, just this morning when we were going to the TV show, I was in the taxi with Maddy (Scott) and her mother and it was great. Her mother's been to P.E.I. and we were chatting about so many things. It was really, really great to get to know her a little more personally. But it's really been phenomenal meeting some of the other Champions here and their families. We haven't had really time to bond. I think that'll come later with bowling and the tour we get at the Royal Canadian Mint. I think that'll give us a little more opportunity to get to know each other a little bit better.

So you're glad you did this?

Oh, I'm thrilled I did this. You know, when I received the email you wonder if you have time to do this. With our training program, our season is now starting in bobsledding, so I had to get permission from my coach to come and do this. I told them this is something I really would like to do. I know, if it were just a corporate event, it probably wouldn't have been worth it in terms of leaving my tour. But the Children's Miracle Network with all these kids and the hospitals that have helped all across the country, there was no way I was going to miss this.

How would you rate yourself as a bowler?

Oh, gosh. I have a special technique in bowling. It's called "granny bowling." It's widening my stance and just swinging the ball between my legs, and I would have to say I'm probably 9.5 out of 10 on that one. My accuracy is pretty good with the granny bowling, not sure about the power.

You may lose some style points, though?

Worth mentioning

Grumpy the clown won the election in a laugh. Now he has to prove that he can read and write.

The São Paulo Electoral Court held a closed-door exam for the clown turned congressman-elect Thursday to determine if he meets a constitutional mandate that federal lawmakers be literate.

Francisco Silva became famous as Tiririca — "Grumpy" in Portuguese — and received about 1.3 million votes, nearly twice as many as the next-highest vote-getter in last month's congressional elections. His campaign videos drew millions of viewers on the Internet,

Grumpy smiles

with slogans such as "It can't get any worse" and "What does a federal deputy do? Truly, I don't know. But vote for me and you'll find out."

But a less humorous element emerged during the campaign: Allegations that Silva, like 10 per cent of Brazilians, is illiterate. Judge Aloisio Silveira ordered that Silva must demonstrate he can read and write.

Following Thursday's test, the president of the electoral court, Judge Walter de Almeida Guilherme, told reporters that Silva "read and wrote" during the exam, but did not offer more details. A final ruling is not expected before Friday.

Theatre-goers can enjoy nine quick and diverse hits of drama and comedy Friday and Saturday as Ottawa hosts the Eastern Ontario Drama League One-Act Play Festival Ottawa Little Theatre.

The festival features nine single-act productions by community theatres from Almonte, Kemptville, Manotick, Peterborough, Perth, Trenton and Ottawa.

The plays are presented in groups of three Friday at 7:30 p.m., and Saturday at 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.

"The playwright's job in a one-act play is to tell a story intensely and in a short period of time," said festival spokesperson Jane Morris.

Tickets are $18 for each three-play session, or $45 for all nine.

► The Social Network and the King's Speech are two early Oscar darlings ► Firth, Portman favoured to get the Best Acting nominations ► With 10 Best Picture nominees, the field has a wide variety of hopefults, from blockbuster Harry Potter to Sundance fave Winter's Bone

It's the start of Oscar season

Two dramas unfolding in a new world of global communications could emerge as front-runners at the Academy Awards.

Director David Fincher's The Social Network is set in modern times as the founders of the website Facebook battle over their creation. Tom Hooper's The King's Speech takes place in the 1920s and '30s as Queen Elizabeth II's dad struggles with his speech impediment at a time when the royal family is counted on to voice reassurance through the new medium of radio.

The Social Network has almost universal acclaim, a hip subject and impressive box-office results since it opened Oct. 1. The King's Speech does not open until late November, but it's an old-fashioned awards contender; a classy period piece that has been an audience favourite at film festivals for its heart and humour.

Nominations come out Jan. 25, with the Oscars presented on Feb. 27.

Here's we look at some predictions for best picture and other top Oscar categories.

BEST PICTURE

Assuming The King's Speech and The Social Network make the cut, eight other films will compete for the remaining slots as the Oscars go with 10 best-picture nominees again. Blockbusters such as animated comedy Toy Story 3, heist drama The Town and Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows: Part 1, the next-to-last film in the fantasy franchise, are contenders.

Smaller releases could slip in, including Ozark thriller and top Sundance winner Winter's Bone, the family comic drama The Kids Are All Right, 127 hours, and Never Let Me Go, a tragic tale set in an alternative reality.

Other contenders include Hereafter, Another Year, Somewhere, Barney's Version, Black Swan, True Grit and How Do You Know.

BEST ACTOR

Colin Firth earned his first Oscar nomination for last year's A Single Man, and some who have seen him as George VI in The King's Speech think Oscar voters should just hand him the best-actor prize.

There's plenty of glibness to be had among other contenders, including Jesse Eisenberg's savagely biting Facebook founder in The Social Network; James Franco as a one-man force of nature, playing a climber trapped alone in a canyon in 127 Hours; and Paul Giamatti in the life story of a tragic producer of schlock TV in Barney's Version.

BEST ACTRESS

Natalie Portman is an unholly terror in Black Swan. A past supporting-actress nominee for Closer, Portman gives herself completely to her role as a goody two-shoes ballerina whose menacing dark side emerges as she prepares for her dream role in Swan Lake.

Annette Bening dominates The Kids Are All Right as the acerbic authoritarian in a family of lesbian parents.

Other possibilities are Anne Hathaway, Love & Other Drugs; Sally Hawkins, Made in Dagenham; Nicole Kidman, Rabbit Hole; Diane Lane, Secretariat; Jennifer Lawrence, Winter's Bone; Helen Mirren, The Tempest; Carey Mulligan, Never Let Me Go; Naomi Watts, Fair Game; Michelle Williams, Blue Valentine.

Get ready for Potter's Magic

► The next-to-last installment of the Harry Potter franchise is nearly out
 ► Potter and pals go on a 'road trip' to look for help to battle Voldemort

Harry Potter's journey is nearly over.

Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows: Part 1 — the next-to-last installment in the film franchise about the teen wizard — premiered Thursday in London ahead of its theatrical release next week.

The adaptation of J.K. Rowling's seventh and final novel comes in two installments, with the second film due out next July.

Fans may leave frustrated that they have to wait eight months for the finale, but Rowling's last book needed to be broken into two parts for the big screen, said Daniel Radcliffe, who stars as Harry. "I was always very much in favour of it being two parts, and I think most people were, simply because we all realized there was no way you could do justice to the book and really capture the story in one film," Radcliffe told The Associated Press.

In the first six books, there was secondary action that could be cut from the movies, "themes, which while exciting and fans love them, simply don't add anything to the main thrust of the story," Radcliffe said. "In the seventh book, there is very little extraneous stuff that's not actually contributing heavily to the main plot line."

Part 1 sends Harry and pals Hermione (Emma Watson) and Ron (Rupert Grint) outside their usual haunts at Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry as they search for artifacts that are the key to the power of dark Lord Voldemort (Ralph Fiennes).

"It's kind of an edgy road movie where these three iconic characters, who we've always seen in this magical place called Hogwarts, are thrust out into the big, bad world and have to fend for themselves and survive," said David Yates, who directed both parts of Deathly Hallows as well as the fifth and sixth Harry Potter films.

"As much as we love Hogwarts, we needed a fresh environment. We needed to be out of our comfort zones, definitely," Watson said.

5 top movies about TV

Morning Glory reveals the further encroachment of entertainment into news, with Harrison Ford playing an old-school anchor who's forced to co-host a network morning program. Merely the notion of fashion and cooking segments causes him to bristle.

But this theme has been explored several times before — and much more proficiently — throughout the years in movies. Television in general has long been a favoured subject for filmmakers; it's the next best thing to skewering their own industry.

Here are five movies about TV that truly are must-see viewing:

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For Richard Crouse's take on movies about TV, go to metronews.ca

The Truman Show (1998)

Twelve years ago, reality television was still relatively in its infancy, but director Peter Weir and writer Andrew Niccol vividly presage the phenomenon of celebrity culture gone wild, and the voyeuristic fascination with learning the most intimate details of a person's private life. In one of his earliest and most effective dramatic roles, Jim Carrey stars as Truman Burbank, a happy-go-lucky insurance salesman who has no idea his entire idyllic life is a television show, with cameras following his every move and actors playing his wife (Laura Linney), friendly neighbours and co-workers. Ed Harris is chilling in an Oscar-nominated supporting role as the TV producer who tracks Truman's existence from a control room on high.

Tootsie (1982)

All the players here are at the top of their game: Dustin Hoffman as notoriously difficult actor Michael Dorsey, who lands a soap opera role only by dressing in drag and calling himself Dorothy Michaels; Sydney Pollack, hitting all the right notes as director and providing harsh laughs as Michael's agent; and Teri Garr, Charles Durning, Bill Murray and Dabney Coleman, who all stand out in supporting parts. It's silly and slapstick and absurd, but it also has something to say about gender roles and relations. Nominated for 10

Oscars, it won one for Jessica Lange's elegant supporting work as the television co-star Michael secretly loves. An absolute comic classic, but with real sweetness and heart.

At the premiere...

Why do you like Harry Potter? What brings you here for the London premiere?

Lizzy
26, DRESSAGE GROOM

"I'm excited to be here. I am a big movie buff, and I think the Harry Potter films made the story more visual, vivid and striking than the book did. Watching the movies is for me a totally different experience than reading the books."

Catherine
26, CIVIL SERVANT

"I came here at 7:30 this morning. Harry Potter for me is all about that magical world where wizards are capable of anything. I secretly want to be one of them, and the film makes me feel like I am a wizard."

Andy
27, ACCOUNTANT

"I am a big fan of Daniel Radcliffe. I was here for the previous Harry Potter film premiere a year ago, and I didn't get an autograph or have a photo with him. I hope I can get what I want this time."

Anthony
22, STUDENT

"I've loved the Harry Potter story since I read the book for the first time, more than 10 years ago. Then I fell in love with the films. I love the characters in the movie; I feel they make the story so real."

A Face in the Crowd (1957)

Director Elia Kazan and writer Budd Schulberg were eerily prescient more than 50 years ago in depicting the power of television to make or break a personality, to turn an unknown into a magnetic figure or a megalomaniac — or both simultaneously. In his film debut, Andy Griffith is hugely charismatic as Larry "Lonesome" Rhodes, a rambling, country-boy drunk with a gift for song. Patricia Neal, intelligent and charming as a plucky radio reporter, discovers him while recording a piece at a small-town Arkansas jail. In no time, a star is born, and that star grows into a monster. TV comes calling, then groupies, then politicians. This could just as easily be the story of Sarah Palin or Snooki.

Network (1976)

Long before Broadcast News lamented the softening of TV news, Sidney Lumet probed the same themes, but with a sharper sense of satire. Like Kazan's film, so much of what happens in Network remains so relevant today. Paddy Chayefsky's Oscar-winning script about a newsman gone mad can be over the top, but it also provides a disturbing look at power and desperation.

Faye Dunaway is fierce (and stylish) as the ratings-hungry TV executive who will do anything to keep the numbers up. Nominated for 10 Academy Awards, it won four, including Peter Finch's posthumous best-actor win for his startling portrayal of anchor Howard Beale. He's mad as hell, and ... well, you know the rest.

Good Night, and Good Luck (2005)

In his second film as a director, George Clooney proves he's an unexpected master of timing and suspense. His recreation of pioneering newsman Edward R.

Murrow's on-air battles with Sen. Joseph McCarthy over the senator's 1950s anti-communist crusade is an ambitious marvel of precise vision. Shot in crisp black and white and set in only a few rooms at the CBS News headquarters, it has the spare look and cadence of a play and runs an efficient 90 minutes long. David Strathairn masters Murrow's mannerisms and speech, leaving you hanging on every word and feeling as if you, too, are on the brink of something vital and thrilling. Nominated for six Oscars, including best picture.

From mom to CIA spy

► Watts went from motherhood to filming Fair Game ► Actress underwent paramilitary training for role

 NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LOS ANGELES

When Naomi Watts was cast as outed CIA agent Valerie Plame in Fair Game, director Doug Liman had just one criticism of her.

"Doug said, 'You're too soft and maternal, and you're going to boot camp,'" she remembers. "I did some paramilitary training for three days. So don't mess with me."

The reason she looked a bit maternal, of course, was because she had just given birth to her second son with husband Liev Schreiber.

"Basically, I had a baby on December 13, I read the script on December 28 and we were filming in February," she says.

And while three days may not seem like all that long, the grueling training she went through — alongside actual government trainees — sounds pretty gruesome. At least the details she's allowed to disclose, that is.

"There's one thing I'm not even allowed to talk about," she says. "As Doug walked out, they sort of kicked me in the shins and threw me to the ground and I went, 'Ow!' and he said, 'OK, don't say ow again unless you need to go to the hospital.' So it was intense."

Luckily, she had some support at home, as Schreiber was preparing for another CIA role in Salt while she studied up for Fair Game, which proved convenient.

"It was very funny and ► Naomi Watts and Sean Penn star in Fair Game.

very strange to have, first of all, two of us shooting at the same time — that's the first time it ever happened with us — and second of all that we were both playing spies," she says. ". There were a lot of moments where we shared our research."

Getting to know your role

For Watts, playing not only a real person but also one still living — and not far removed from the events of the film — proved especially intriguing. But while she got to meet and work with Valerie Plame, she admits the schedule didn't allow for a lot of politeness.

"You don't get her all at once. It takes time. And I'm kind of like that, too," Watts says. "So we just were careful and easy with each other and we slowly went into it, and then finally it was crunch time and I just presented her with a list of very confronting and personal questions."

Movie review*See it twice ⚡⚡ | See it now ⚡⚡ | Worth watching ⚡ | Yawn ⚡ | Don't bother ⚡*A train ride that goes nowhere*Unstoppable

Genre: Action
Director: Tony Scott
Stars: Denzel Washington, Chris Pine, Rosario Dawson

How do you make a film about a runaway train exciting? It's a vehicle on a set track that's route is known before it ever loses control. The solution director Tony Scott came up with was to fill the train with generic "hazardous material" and hire a bunch of recognizable actors too look sweaty and stressed in a never-ending series of extreme close-ups. Sure, there are a few scenes where the train crashes into something and makes a pretty explosion, but it's still practically impossible to be thrilled by a speeding train.

Part of the problem is that this is a true story that has been dressed up with so much Hollywood gloss that not a thread of reality remains. Denzel Washington and Chris "Captain Kirk" Pine aren't believable as working class train workers for a second and when both actors delve into their troubled personal lives with mid-chase monologues the movie grinds to a laughable halt (if only they could have stopped the runaway train with melodrama). Now, it's not all bad. Tony Scott knows how to make a movie look good and his use of physical effects is a nice nostalgic change of pace from CGI spectacle. Unfortunately none of that changes the fact that Unstoppable is just one big dumb hollow movie.

• PHIL BROWN

Stone
Genre: Drama
Director: John Curran
Stars: Robert De Niro, Edward Norton, Mila Jovovich

Stone is a muddled, but intriguing prison drama about a burned out corrections officer, a manipulative con with a conscience, and his femme fatale-esque wife desperate to get a release. This movie should have been a smart dirty thriller, but is teased out into an almost theological think piece by director John Curran.

The approach works wonders for the cast, with DeNiro giving a thoughtful if somewhat lazy performance (like all his late career appearances), Norton offering an entertaining and non-racial spin on his hyper-intelligent American History X thug (now with unintentionally hysterical cornrows!), and Jovovich contributing easily the best work of her career.

Watching the three actors play off each other is a blast even if Curran's ill-conceived attempts to elevate the genre material are fruitless and distracting.

• PHIL BROWN

Monsters
Genre: Action/Drama
Director: Gareth Edwards
Stars: Scoot McNairy, Whitney Able

Don't let the title fool you — there aren't actually a ton of monsters in this ambitious but slightly unfulfilling sci-fi thriller. Made on a shoestring budget by effects wunderkind Gareth Edwards, Monsters is essentially a road movie about a young American couple crossing "infected"

Mexico where an enormous octopus-like species has been leaving a wake of destruction. Like District 9, Monsters is intent on selling subtext but its ulterior focus will disappoint fans set more on spooky sci-fi thrills. As an independent project however, its impressive; when those giant-tentacled space creatures do appear, they're pretty cool.

CONAN O'BRIEN

TV

It looks like Conan O'Brien is getting the last laugh after all. The former Tonight Show host's new show was welcomed by more than 4.1 million viewers in the U.S. when it premiered this week; beating The Daily Show with Jon Stewart, The Colbert Report, and — perhaps fittingly — the Tonight Show with Jay Leno.

MICHAEL JACKSON

MUSIC

He died more than a year ago, but Michael Jackson is still causing controversy. This time, the newest to-do follows the release of a new song, Breaking News, supposedly by the late King of Pop. While Jackson's family is protesting the release, the music company behind it is vouching for its authenticity. The outcome? Likely a lot of sales and downloads.

THE LAST AIRBENDER

OPRAH WINFREY

CELEBRITY

With all the attention she is getting lately, you have to wonder why she is walking away from her successful talk show. In the last few weeks, 'O' has claimed headlines with her interviews of George Bush, the Jackson Family and Marie Osmond. # Avril ready to rock out again

► After what she calls 'bureaucratic BS,' the singer is set to drop her fourth album ► The 26-year-old's last record was released in 2007

Avril Lavigne says her fourth record is set for release after "bureaucratic BS" held it back for a year.

Writing on her MySpace blog, the 26-year-old pop-punker betrayed agitation with her record company.

"I'm done with my 4th record!!! Well, actually I have been done for a year... and now my record company have finally decided to release it," she wrote in a post on Wednesday.

"This has been a really difficult record for me to create. Not only is this the most meaningful and special record I have written, it is sincere, honest and close to my heart."

"But for the first time I experienced a bunch of bureaucratic BS..."

The Ontario native's last record was 2007's The Best Damn Thing. The Juno-nominated album featured the No. 1 hit Girlfriend and went platinum twice in Canada. It also sold well around the world.

► TV star Cory Monteith gleeful about Gemini gig

IAN
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Life has changed quite drastically for Glee star Cory Monteith in the last two years. A self-described Canadian "working class actor," Glee's success means Monteith now has to cope with daily paparazzi and ever-present fans. Still, he ain't complaining.

"I went for coffee yesterday and a little car pulled up in front of me and start taking pictures of me, which was fine," says Monteith, who plays Finn Hudson on the dramedy.

"And then I went back to my car and started driving away and I saw the guy running to his car to try and follow me. I just roll with it. It's just part and parcel of what this all is.

"Making sure my zipper is up when I leave the house is really important."

CORY MONTEITH ON HIS NEWFOUND RELATIONSHIP WITH THE PAPARAZZI

Making sure my zipper is up when I leave the house is really important."

Part of that newfound fame means Monteith has been tabbed to host this year's Gemini Awards, honoring the best in Canadian television.

"I can't believe I'm part of the show and especially now I'm hosting. What the heck? Presenting is even cool, but I'm the host. It's a tall order."

Monteith credits his years spent as a busy west coast actor on shows like Stargate, Whistler, and Supernatural with preparing him for his recent success.

"Absolutely. It only helped me. I think having cut my teeth doing a lot of stuff back home and figuring out how to act has proven indispensable," says Monteith, who has a few skeletons in his acting closet that may be revealed at the Geminis.

"That's a good idea. I'm absolutely prepared to make fun of myself. So if anyone would like to talk about the funnier or dumber things that I've done, I'm game. There's a wolfman movie that comes to mind (Hybrid)."

In its second season, Monteith feels Glee is only now hitting its stride.

"I think the tone of the show has got more specified. I think the writing (and) the characters have gotten a lot more specific and the show has kind of developed a feel," he says.

► Former Friends star said to be considering new reality show

MTV bosses Tony DiSanto and Liz Gateley have reportedly set their sites on Jennifer Aniston as the subject of a new reality series — and the Friends star is said to be considering it, according to Now magazine.

Go wild for mushroom soup

► Soup is a perfect lunch or dinner option for the cold winter days ahead ► Step it up a notch by adding porcini mushrooms and ground walnuts to traditional mushroom soup

► Wild Mushroom Soup

Ingredients:

- 30 ml (2 tbsp) butter
- 750 g (1 1/2 lbs) wild and white mushrooms
- 60 g (2 oz) dried porcini mushrooms, reconstituted
- 250 ml (1 cup) ground

walnuts

- 1/2 onion, diced
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 celery stalks, diced
- 2 bay leaves
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) flour
- 1.5 l (6 cups) hot chicken or vegetable broth
- 75 ml (1/3 cup) sherry
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) fresh thyme
- 250 ml (1 cup) whipping cream
- Salt and pepper, to taste
- Sautéed mushrooms and/or crumbled blue cheese, for garnish

Wild mushrooms and walnuts add earthy flavour to this warming soup. This rich and luscious dish is an enticing change from the traditional mushroom soup. Porcini mushrooms and ground walnuts offer an earthy contrast to the mild broth.

Wild Mushroom Soup Preparation:

- 1 To reconstitute dried porcini mushrooms: Follow directions on the package. Or combine porcini and 375 ml (1 1/2 cups) boiling water in medium bowl. Let stand until porcini softens, 15 to 20 minutes. Remove porcini from water and chop coarsely.
- 2 In a large, heavy-bottomed stock pot on high heat, melt butter. Add mushrooms, walnuts, onion, garlic, celery and bay leaves, and sauté until lightly browned (5 to 10 minutes). Reduce heat to medium, stir in flour
- 3 Let simmer for 20 minutes and remove bay leaves.
- 4 Remove from heat and, using an immersion blender, pulse until mushrooms are nearly pureed or until desired consistency.
- 5 Return to heat, bring to a boil and add thyme and cream. Stir to combine. Garnish with sautéed wild mushrooms and/or crumbled blue cheese, if desired, and serve.

and cook for another 2 minutes. Stirring constantly, slowly add hot broth and sherry and bring to a boil.

GREAT NORTHERN TALENT

Paris. Tennis

Field of Play

SCOTT RUSSELL

It may be intangible, but to be in a room of 1,000 people to witness the gods and goddesses of sport get their due and enter Canada's Sports Hall of Fame is awe-inspiring.

More than that it's humbling to realize that there is so much talent in this land of ice and snow. Like the country itself, that talent is expressed in complex, wonderful ways, and its limits are endless.

To become aware that this so-called "winter nation" has produced an Olympic gold medal gymnast, a Formula One driving champion, the globe's pioneering and iconic wheelchair racer, a visionary who claimed Olympic rowing gold in a borrowed boat and then built Own the Podium, and a speedskater/cyclist who is arguably all of sport's most generous and accomplished athlete for all seasons, is both reassuring and enlightening.

This is to say nothing of an Olympic skiing champion, the greatest hockey goalie on the planet and a tireless professional football builder. The entire group has fashioned legendary status.

We have nothing to apologize for when it comes to considering the quality of our sporting heroes in Canada. There should be no whining or second-guessing as these graduates of our cultural landscape take their place at the head of the class.

They have all realized their vast potential and followed their difficult dreams. To a person, they represent lofty standards for the aspiring youth of this country.

Make no mistake, they are heroes and should be emulated.

There should be no need to identify them here. They should all be household names by now.

Canada's Sports Hall of Fame will soon have a real home in Calgary. It will be a proper shrine to all this achievement where Canadians can go to acquaint themselves with these and other worthy champions who comprise a significant part of our folklore. Then it's up to us to get to know their names and relate the fascinating stories of this great northern talent to others.

Kyle Shewfelt, Jacques Villeneuve, Chantal Petitclerc, Roger Jackson, Clara Hughes, Jean-Luc Brassard, Patrick Roy and Bob Ackles are all worth keeping fresh in our memories.

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

Aries March 21-April 20 You will meet some interesting people on your travels today and at least one of them is destined to play a major role in your life over the next six months, and maybe longer.

Taurus April 21-May 21 It may seem as if others are conspiring to stop you moving in the direction you want to go but are they really or is your own mind sabotaging your efforts?

Gemini May 22-June 21 If you are as smart as you think you are you will see the futility of trying too hard.

Cancer June 22-July 22 The softer side of your nature will shine through today. You may look tough to the world at large but that's merely your hard outer shell – underneath you are more vulnerable than most people realize.

Leo July 23-Aug. 23 Sit back, close your eyes and imagine where you would most like to be and what you would most like to be doing by this time next year.

Virgo Aug. 24-Sept. 22 Life does not have to be a battle. You don't have to fight for success. The Sun in the communications area of your chart makes it easy for you to charm your way to the top. Get busy making new friends today.

Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 Don't waste too much time trying to

Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 So many of the things you are worrying about bear little or no relation to reality, so stop thinking about them because that gives them power.

Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 If you need to kiss and make up, if you need to make amends, now is the time. Also, if you are having second thoughts about travel plans there is still time to put them on hold.

Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 As usual you are working too hard and as usual you think the way to get ahead is to
